1. Write down the times that you give your son the dry pants inspections
2. This will not only help you remember when it is time for the next inspections, it will enable you to calculate the time interval between inspections if your son has not initiated using the potty by the end of the big day.
3. Once your son has initiated using the potty at least twice, the frequency of dry pants inspections is reduced significantly. Inspections are now done only every few hours, such as after breakfast, snack time, lunch, dinner, and before car rides, nap time & bedtime.
